1. Since the fall of 1951, two Seepolizei training ships manned by about 30 young men have been stationed in the harbor of Gassenitz on the island of Ruegen. The trainees are given instruction in seamanship during cruises lasting four to five days. Also stationed in the harbor are five cutters belonging to the Seepolizei.
2. The town of Dranske on the island of Ruegen was evacuated in the fall of 1951 on orders of the government because the houses were to be occupied by Seepolizei units. One unit has thus far been quartered in Dranske.
3. The radio transmitter in Glowe (Ruegen) is being reconstructed by the Seepolizei after having been dismantled in 1945. A companion-station is located in Lohre (Ruegen)*. Construction in progress at Glowe indicates that the installation is to be enlarged. Two tanks, each of 15,000 liter capacity, are being installed. These tanks far exceed the needs of the present motor pool of the Glowe transmitter.
4. The lighthouse located on the chalk cliffs on the northeast tip of Ruegen has been manned by Seepolizei personnel. In 1945 a direct cable ran from this lighthouse to Berlin headquarters. The Russians dug up the cable after 10/5. At present a new cable is being laid to establish direct com.
